HEAVY ATTACK MADE BY BRITISH BOMBERS

Air Bases, Freight Yard and Submarine Base Are Raided by Royal Air Force Overnight—Skoda Works in Czechoslovakia Are Left in Flames—Berlin Factory Damaged

LONDON, Nov. 21 (Thursday) (P).—British bombers were stated authoritatively today to have carried out overnight raids on air bases in German-held territory, a heavy attack on a Nazi freight yard and an attack on the submarine base at Lorient.

LONDON, Nov. 20 (P).—In a flight over 1,400 miles of hostile air lines, including the return journey, British bombers early today started fires in the vast Skoda armament works in German-occupied Czechoslovakia.

The plant, in Pilsen, was the easternmost target reached in an overnight bombing campaign which extended also from the harbor of Brest, Normandy, to Berlin and as far south as Lorient, France.

A returning British pilot said specifically he had seen flames spread over the Skoda factory and heard a subsequent violent explosion.

SMALL BUT EFFECTIVE
In the Berlin attack it was acknowledged only small forces participated, but the Air Ministry said it had been an effective one in which much damage was believed to have been wrought to a big factory making German naval equipment.

EARL BACK IN HIS OLD CLUB

Makes Unexpected Appearance in Startling Garb For West End

LONDON, Nov. 20 (P).—People slipping their drinks at a West End club thought they must have had "one too many" when they saw Captain the Earl of Cardigan walk up to the bar and order a drink. The last time they heard of him he was a prisoner of the Germans.

"I'm back all right," he said smilingly.

The earl, serving with the Royal Army Service Corps, was captured at St. Omer during the retreat to Dunkerque. Friends asked how he escaped.

He smiled again. The story will not be told in detail until the war is over.

SMILED IN TURN
Then they noticed his clothes and it was their turn to smile. "Wherever did you get those trousers?" they asked.

Those trousers can never have been in a West End club before—off-white flannel, so wide and baggy as to be almost like a pair of skirts.

The earl wore them with enormous brogues, a mottled yellow tie worked his way through unoccupied France. He traveled for 300 miles, wearing out several pairs of boots of various sizes. He had no money, but relied on the sympathies of villagers for food and shelter.

The thirty-six-year-old earl is the son and heir of the Marquess of Ailesbury, whose seat is at Savernake Forest, Marlborough, Wiltshire.

Reports Child Refugees Now Nearly 6,000

OTTAWA, Nov. 20 (P).—A total of 5,858 children have emigrated from Great Britain to Canada since war was declared, Resources Minister Cresser told the Commons today.

Answering a question, Mr. Cresser said that under the British Government's evacuation arrangements 1,332 had been transferred, while 4,526 came under private arrangements.

JAPANESE ARRESTED

HAVANA, Nov. 20 (P).—Two Japanese were arrested last night at Cabo Cruz, near Manzanillo, Oaxaca Province, by police, who said the two were making soundings in the sea at that point. The police said the two dumped overboard their apparatus, camera and "documents" when they were seized.

Military, Political and Economic Treaty Pledges Joint Action Against Any Country Which Might Engage in European or Asiatic Wars—Rumanian Premier Leaves to Visit Hitler

VIENNA, Nov. 20 (P).—Hitler today annexed Hungary to the German-Italian-Japanese Axis which he thus converted into a four-power alliance by means of which he hopes to defeat Britain and effect a totalitarian reorganization of Europe, Asia and Africa.

DEATH ENDS LONG CAREER

Judge Peter S. Lampman, Former Member of B.C. County Court, Passes

Judge P. S. Lampman, one of the best known and most popular figures in British Columbia's legal circles at the time of his retirement four years ago, passed away at 12 o'clock last night.

Born in Thorold, Ont., in 1867, Peter Secord Lampman belonged to a well-known Eastern Canadian family, two of the most distinguished members of which were Laura Secord, heroine of early Ontario history, who was an ancestress, and the late Archibald Lampman, one of the most noted of Canadian poets, who was a kinsman.

Judge Lampman attended high school in his native town, and from there went to Trinity College, University of Toronto, from which he graduated in 1888. Deciding to make law his profession, he read law in turn with Miller, Cox & Yale in St. Catherine's, Ont., Bruce, Burton & Bruce in Hamilton, and Hall & Kilmer in Toronto.

In 1892 he was called to the Ontario bar, but the following year decided to come out to British Columbia, where he was admitted to the bar in 1893, starting his long legal career here in association with George Powell. Two years later he gave up his practice to become secretary of the Law Society of British Columbia, a position which he continued at Kobe and Yokohama.

Says Practical Limit Of Industry Will Be Reached Next Year

Supply Minister Says Programme Will Be Complete in Eight Months—Merchant Ships To Be Built on West Coast

OTTAWA, Nov. 20 (P).—Completion in eight months of the present industrialization programme will see Canada's productive capacity at its "practical limit," Supply Minister Howe said in the Commons today.

"The next eight months will be a testing time for the morale of the Canadian people," he said. "At the end of that period Canada should be producing the practical maximum of war material of which the Dominion is capable."

Speaking in the Throne Speech debate, Mr. Howe gave a detailed picture of the work being done by the Department of Munitions and Supply.

Describing expenditures of $25,000,000 in Government capital investments on plants and of $249,000,000 on war orders, the minister said margins of profit had been held at levels much lower than in peacetime.

NO NEW MILLIONAIRES
"I feel confident that there will be no new millionaires emerging from this war," he said.

Following are some of the outstanding figures of the war:

TERRIFIC ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE LESSENS FORCE OF BIG NAZI ASSAULT ON MIDLANDS TOWNS

From Europe Day by Day—THE TIMES, London
News and Comment on International Events selected from The Times daily and published in The Daily Colonist by special arrangement with The Vancouver Daily Province.

(Copyright, 1940, by The Southern Co.)
LONDON, Nov. 20.—The Italians have been driven back across the Kalamas River, but the struggle for Koriza still goes on and there have evidently been strong counter attacks against the Greeks who, however, still hold the initiative.

Captures of prisoners and material continue and there is apparently a steady withdrawal by the Italians on the Koriza front. A Greek raid on one of the Dodecanese Islands by fifteen men in a motorboat has been magnified in a Rome official statement into a major attack which the Italians say they repelled by their prompt action.

Greek troops have already begun to understand the method of dealing with enemy dive bombers and have shot down seven in a single day by the use of machine-guns. Soon, presumably, says the Athens correspondent of The Times, they will be able to rival the famous British Army cook at Dunkirk who handled a machine gun for the first time in his life, shot down four German Stukas.

Italian air losses have been considerable, nearly eighty machines, according to newspaper estimates. Greece, however, needs aircraft in threefold numbers to meet the threat of the United States to be allowed to purchase them there in the largest numbers possible. There is an intense feeling of gratitude in Athens for the aid already afforded by the Royal Air Force.

A new wave of nerves against Turkey is expected to be started in Germany in the hope of inducing the Ankara Government to remain neutral and persuade it to accept German domination of Europe. This move is believed to be part of an attempt to induce the Soviet Union to bring pressure on Turkey over future control of the Dardanelles.

The Nazis want Russia to find an outlet instead on the Persian Gulf. So far there is little indication in the Balkan capitals that Germany is about to intervene on Italy's side in the war against Greece.

It is reported that the German Ambassador, Von Papen, offered Turkey Syria and part of Iraq in return for her acceptance of German plans, but the Turkish premier replied "Why not Scotland as well?"

The return of King Boris from Berchtesgaden according to The Times Sofia correspondent has been followed by a hurried introduction of anti-Jewish laws in the Bulgarian Parliament. It is not believed, however, the King made any promises to Hitler and it is unknown if a request was made for passage of Nazi troops through Bulgarian territory to Salonika. The Bulgarian official view is that no such violation of Bulgarian territory is imminent.

The Royal Air Force damage to German industry mounts every day. The Europa steamship has been damaged, half the Krupp armaments plant wrecked and the Leuna oil refineries as well as many war chemicals works put out of production for a considerable time. German refugees are pouring into Vienna for safety. Vienna is demonstrating against them as food is short. Crops in many parts of Germany are rotting because transportation breakdown makes it impossible to gather them.

LOCATE SECOND MISSING FLYER

Ottawa Announces Four Still Lost Somewhere in Quebec Wilderness

OTTAWA, Nov. 20 (P).—Air force headquarters announced today the second of six airmen who parachuted from a coastal bomber late Saturday night had been located deep in the Quebec wilderness.

Meanwhile search was pressed for the four men missing and parties were sent out to bring to safety the man located by air. Emergency rations were dropped to him.

The man was not identified immediately. Nor could the air force say whether he was the same man reported located by a Maine game supervisor between East Lake and Rocky Mountain on the northern tip of Maine.

The plane, a Royal Canadian Air Force bomber of the coastal patrol, was presumed out of gas when her six-man crew abandoned her about midnight last Saturday. F.O. J. H. Leblanc, last to leave the plane, landed near a lumber camp.

None word of the others was received until the Air Ministry made known the discovery of a second man from the air today.

Britain to Be Given "Flying Fortresses" And New Bomb Sight

United States Army Announces Release of Famous Sperry Aiming Device—Huge Bombers, Capable of 3,000-Mile Flight, Nearly Ready

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 (P).—The United States Army announced today the release to Great Britain of its famous Sperry bomb sight and disclosed negotiations are under way for early release to the Royal Air Force of twenty of its "flying fortresses."

General George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, made the disclosures at a press conference at which it also was announced twenty-six four-engined bombing planes ordered for United States are being released for sale to Britain as fast as they can be produced.

Announcement of the release to Britain of the Sperry bomb sight came with the disclosure by General Marshall that the United States now is employing a new and presumably

Official Announcement Says Attacks Widespread But Desultory—Damage Done at Several Points But Raids Generally Ineffective and Number of Casualties Small—New Campaign

Bombs Drop in London Area As Gunfire Shakes Buildings

LONDON, Nov. 21 (Thursday) (P).—Nazi planes swarmed out of the night for a second "total" attack on Britain's industrial Midlands but early today it was reported that a terrific anti-aircraft barrage had dulled the edge of the new offensive. An Air-Home Security Ministry communique this morning said:

"Enemy activity over this country last night was widespread but desultory air attacks made were intermittent and on a minor scale."

CASUALTIES NOT HEAVY

Midlands Town Severely Damaged But Relatively Few Persons Killed

A WEST MIDLANDS TOWN IN ENGLAND, Nov. 20 (P).—After a day of digging through smoking ruins left by last night's nine-hour pounding by Nazi bombers, the police of this important industrial town said tonight there were less than twenty known dead.

There has not been a full accounting, however, and rescue squads still explored the heaps of masonry, glass and tangled girders. A trip from the eastern limits through the centre of the western suburbs, revealed the toll of Tuesday night's raid.

ENTIRE BLOCKS RAZED
Entire blocks of houses were razed, while the slates were torn from hundreds of others.

One bomb striking a public square sent several stores tumbling into a common mass of wreckage. Another, landing atop the large office building of an insurance firm, not only wrecked that structure, but also razed several small stores and broke all windows in one of the town's largest hotels.

A two-block-long glass arcade retained only its warped steel skeleton.

MORALE HOLDS FIRM
The morale of the citizens held firm. Tonight the Germans were reported again over the Midlands. At dusk the queues before the shelters were larger than usual and one man said:

"Wonder if hell will be on time tonight?"

CLOUDBURST TOLL IS UNDETERMINED

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Nov. 20 (P).—The Government rushed all possible assistance to a section of Northeast Jamaica today after a cloudburst which resulted in the worst floods experienced in this British colony in half a century.

Because of crippled communications and chaotic conditions in the area it was impossible to ascertain definitely how many lives were lost but latest reports from the district said eleven bodies had been recovered. The meagre advice reaching the capital of the island said it was expected scores were drowned in the sudden deluge Monday night which caused many rivers and streams to overflow their banks.

FRENCHMEN TAKE A STRONG STAND

Thailand's Claim for Territory in Indo-China Not to Be Accepted

SHANGHAI, Nov. 21 (P).—The Government of French Indo-China, with the backing of Vichy, was reported today to have adopted a strong stand regarding territorial demands by Thailand (Siam).

French quarters here said Indo-China "will not accept" Thailand's claims for the Luang Prabang and Pakse territories and would insist Thailand demonstrate her good will by ratifying a non-aggression pact concluded several months ago.

Meanwhile, an official French statement, denying Japanese reports of large-scale fighting between Indo-China and Thailand forces, said the border situation was quiet.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20 (P).—A new British freighter arrived here today with 9,000 tons of dates from Iran—the season's first shipment—after a fifty-five-day voyage via the Cape of Good Hope.

Peace Road Outlet Over Ten-Year Term Proposed in House

Government Urged to Proceed With Work on Main Highways in North, South and Interior—Liberal Members Support Budget and Policies

ROAD problems occupied the Provincial Legislature yesterday, as debate continued on the budget. E. T. Kenney (Liberal, Skeena) urged completion of the Northern Trans-Provincial Highway, to link Prince Rupert by road with Vancouver; Arnold McGrath (Liberal, Cranbrook) suggested work on the Southern Trans-Provincial Highway in the Kootenay area, and also action to improve British Columbia road links with Alberta; and Glen E. Braden (Liberal, Peace River) invited the Administration to consider a ten-year plan for construction of a Pacific Coast outlet for the Peace block, via Finlay Forks. Louis LeBourdais (Liberal, Cariboo) adjourned debate for the day.

In three excellent speeches, the House learned a good deal about British Columbia's hinterland and the progress made by settlers in the northern ridings. It was reported that Sudeten German refugees in the Peace River had settled down to life on the land, and that the services of their young men had been offered in a body to Canada for service overseas. The Peace River had bumper grain crops, but little cash benefit from them with grain settlement rates at 47½ cents, f.o.b., at Port Williams.

Tourist traffic fell off by 15,000 cars in the Southern Interior this year, due to stringent border regulations.

A. J. McGRATH

Mr. McGrath stressed the need for completion of the Southern Trans-Provincial Highway, with early action on gaps between Kimberley and Trail, Nelson and Creston, and at some other points. Both United States and Canadian road travel in British Columbia had been reduced this year, the latter by reason of poor roads linking with Alberta. The Province should extend the Big Bend Highway, a link with the Jasper area, via Tete Jaune Cache. Something like one hundred miles of highway remained on the southern route, which, if completed would remove the bottlenecks and encourage, particularly, Canadian travel to flow again.

Telling of a serious forest fire season in the Kootenays, Mr. McGrath said lightning had caused ninety-nine outbreaks within one period of twenty-four hours. The Provincial Forest Service had done excellent work, but it was handicapped by inadequate appropriations for fire prevention and for other services. Timber was being removed at a greater rate than ever, due to war needs, and practical steps would have to be taken to replace this stock, both for the sake of present generations and for those yet to come.

The Kootenays had fertile soil, with lack of irrigation the chief problem. With whatever funds were available, the Province might consider assistance to small irrigation schemes in the area. Addition of immigration, while welcome in its way, should be selective if present settlers were not to suffer. The Interior ridings, generally, felt that Canada's training and war supply efforts were not being shared fairly, in that most attention was being concentrated on the Coast. Interior areas afforded many facilities for training camps, and would welcome a decentralization of industrial development likely to spring from wartime production. Mr. McGrath said, in conclusion.

Mr. LeBourdais adjourned debate for the day. H. G. Perry (Liberal, Port George) reported for the private bills committee that the Tule Estate measure and amendments to the Vancouver Incorporation Act were in order, and returned now to the House for further action. The House adjourned until 2:30 p.m. today, when the budget debate will possibly be wound up.

BRITISH BOMBERS IN HEAVY ATTACK

A flyer assigned to that job made a report that called the recent bombing of Munich while Hitler was there.

"We had one of the really big boys on board, a brother of the one I dropped at Munich a little time ago," he said. "And we let them have the heavy stuff, and then the incendiaries."

Munitions stores, said the Ministry, were among the Berlin objectives bombed.

Also hit were railway yards and junctions, not only in Berlin but in Bremen and Aurich and the important inland Rhine port of Duisburg-Ruhrort.

Familiar industrial and dock targets were bombed again at Kiel and Bremerhaven, Hamburg, Gelsenkirchen and Hamborn. Three British planes were lost.

MAC'S MISTAKE

Some years ago an English family rented a place in the Highlands for a few months. It was a lovely place, and one morning the party engaged a boat to take them across. The weather had become very unsettled, and the father said to the boatman:

"By the way, can you tell me where I can get a mackintosh for my daughter?"

The boatman rested on his oars for a moment or two, and then said:

"There's not just many Macintoshes hereabouts, but there is a fine young Macdonald—a bachelor—who lives at the head of the loch, and he might be selling the young lady."

Alberta-British Columbia road links should also be improved in the North, with about $100,000 worth of graveling required now to surface mud roads much in use by farmers in the area. The grain crop had been large, and grain had to be dumped beside the threshers, until granaries could be built. The wheat, No. 1 Northern, had brought 47½ cents a bushel, less an extra 5 cents freight charge, 4½ cents of which had been eliminated by representations in which he and Federal members had joined.

Livestock was not a solution of Peace farming problems, though with more adequate transportation and communication it could be so. German settlers in the land had done well, even though many were townspeople when they left the Sudeten areas in Europe. They were loyal, and appeared willing to work on the land. Promising anthracite coal was being worked at Hudson's Hope, with reserves of some 800,000 tons of that coal in sight. Health units and consolidated schools had given good service in the North, and British Columbia efforts in this region were being copied in Alberta. Mr. Braden said, in conclusion.

least will open a decisive phase of the Greek-Italian war in Albania. ABSOLUTE CONFUSION

The radio added that it had information that Italian troops in Albania were in a state of "absolute confusion" after the break in the line.

Greek forces are marching toward their objectives," the radio said. "Much war materials and many prisoners have been taken. Guns, machine guns and hundreds of cars have been abandoned by the retreating enemy. Much of this victorious fighting has been hand-to-hand and the bayonet played a great part in it."

Along the Ionian coastal sector to the southwest, where the Italians now hold only a narrow strip of Greek territory, defence troops are gaining generally.

URGED TO TRY FOR SOLUTION

Secretary of State Calls on Indian Leaders to Get Together

LONDON, Nov. 20 (P)—L. S. Amery, Secretary of State for India, urged in the Commons today that the "serious-minded and responsible leaders of the Indian nation" get together and "think out among themselves the terribly difficult and complex problem of India's Constitution."

He spoke in a debate on Indian affairs after an announcement withdrawing for the time being the offer to give Indian political leaders a greater voice in the Viceroy's Executive Council. The announcement explained the major political parties were not in the present circumstances prepared to take advantage of the proposal.

Mr. Amery expressed regret that the Congress Party in India had rejected the offer of the Viceroy, the Marquess of Linlithgow, and added: "The offer, which is still open to the leaders of political opinion in India, is that they should come to the Viceroy's Executive Council not as mere advisers, but as ministers responsible for the great departments of State and come into the council in such number as to constitute a substantial majority over the European members of the Viceroy's council."

CARRIES GREAT WEIGHT

"Surely a body of that sort—even though its primary responsibility is to the Viceroy and not to Parliament, is a body which must carry great weight," the minister asked.

He added that while the Viceroy was willing to give Mohandas K. Gandhi and his followers the same right to a state of conscientious opinion about the war as allowed in Britain, he could not grant the Congress Party's demands for "the right to urge Indians not to recruit; not to work in munition factories and not to contribute to voluntary war committees."

Mr. Amery revealed that India had 60,000 troops serving overseas and is "rapidly expanding" its army to 500,000 men "trained, equipped and mechanized" on a modern scale.

WINNING ON LARGE FRONT

a battalion of Albanians in the Italian forces has revolted and been disbanded.

Tonight the counter-offensive was proceeding in what was described here as a virtual creation of Italian air activity. Earlier, the action of Fascist bombers was acknowledged to have slowed the advance of the Greeks.

The Italian base of Konitz was said by Greek informants to be directly menaced by the fact that Greek troops had gone down tonight from previous positions on Mount Morava into the plain just south of the city.

The diminished Italian aerial attack was attributed to their relatively heavy losses in the last twenty-four hours. The British Air Command announced Royal Air Force pilots alone had shot down or put out of action eleven Italian planes during that period.

The Athens radio said the "importance of this break-through cannot be estimated at present, but at

Formally Open New Seminary On Mainland

The formal opening and dedication of the Seminary of Christ the King at New Westminster yesterday was attended by Most Rev. John C. Cody, D.D., Bishop of Victoria, and Rev. Father J. A. Gaudette, Roman Catholic prelate from many parts of the Northwest attended the ceremony.

"The institution was established exclusively for students desirous of studying for the priesthood in Western Canada and is the junior seminary of the Archdiocese of Vancouver. It is owned and directed by the Benedictine monks of Westminster Priory, first daughter house of St. Benedict's Abbey at Mount Angel, Ore."

Founded by Archbishop William Duke about ten years ago, the seminary was located at Ladner, on Jubilee Farm, which had been bequeathed to the archdiocese by Mrs. McNeely.

The new seminary is on the shores of Deer Lake. There is a main building, gymnasium and various smaller buildings. Westminster Priory, dedicated to St. Joseph, is nearby.

The faculty is composed of Very Rev. Cyril Lebold, Rev. Leo Walsh, Very Rev. Joseph Schindler, Very Rev. Eugene Medved, Rev. Andrew Keber, Rev. Justin Reilly, Rev. Benjamin Cakel and Rev. Brother Benedict.

STAR ROMANCE THEME OF TALK

Mrs. Diana Watts Addresses Astronomical Society—Annual Dinner Soon

"When I look up into a clear starlit sky, the vision of sublime beauty above me quiets the time-worn questions that are all unanswered yet, and takes from the spent and troubled souls of us their vain regrets."

With that quotation from an anonymous writer, Mrs. Diana Watts last night summarized her sentiments in the course of an address on "The Romance of the Stars," given before a well-attended meeting of the Victoria Centre of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada at the Y.W.C.A.

Illustrated with lantern-slides operated by Dr. William Petrie, her talk was largely devoted to the legends of the constellations named after mythological personages, animals, or objects. It was shown, too, that while these were quite arbitrary groups of fixed stars they did, in many cases, resemble in their groupings the imaginary figures of the legends and the romantic Greek legends of great antiquity from which they derived their names.

"Some of the forms are amazingly clear, for instance, Orion, the most magnificent constellation in the whole firmament. It is quite easy to see the form of the hunter with his brilliant belt, from which hangs his hunting knife," said the lecturer.

Amateurs HAPPY

Amateurs, the speaker thought, probably experienced more excitement working with a small telescope than the average professional astronomer did with a hundred-inch one, because the greatest astronomers were chiefly occupied with abstract calculations concerning distances, movements, and comings and goings of stars, and only rarely had the opportunity to observe the heavens in all their glory.

"When men first began studying the stars, they had no telescopes at all, and it is to these pioneers that we owe all the romance of astronomy. To the early Greeks, as far back as 600 B.C., who wove fairy tales into the night skies, and gave to all the constellations the names by which they are still known nearly 3,000 years later," Mrs. Watts noted.

CONFIDENT OF FINAL VICTORY

Dr. D. P. Pandia Says Commonwealth Will Defeat Hitlerism in the End

Confident that the British Commonwealth of Nations would come out on top in its struggle with Hitlerism was expressed by Dr. D. P. Pandia, member of the Nationalist Congress of India and associate of Mahatma Gandhi, who is on a brief return visit to the city.

"We shall win because we are fighting for the principle of democracy and human rights," he said at the Empress Hotel yesterday. "The enemy has the initiative meantime, but that phase will pass when the whole might of the Commonwealth is thrown into the scale."

Speaking of the efforts of the British family of nations, Dr. Pandia pointed out that in the last war India had supplied 1,500,000 soldiers and suffered nearly 300,000 casualties; in the present war she has already sent 200,000 men, mostly Sikhs, on service in the Near East and Far East theatres of war.

The Indian diplomat, who has been in Canada and the United States during the past eighteen months in the interests of Hindu residents in both countries, visited Victoria this time to confer with Premier Pattullo, whom he saw yesterday, on matters affecting the Hindus in British Columbia.

ALLOWED TO REMAIN

Last year Dr. Pandia successfully negotiated with the Federal Government regarding 225 Hindus who had entered Canada a number of years ago, and were threatened with deportation proceedings on account of irregularity of entrance. These proceedings were dropped as a result of his representations and the Hindus allowed to remain as an act of grace.

He pointed out yesterday, however, that, although permitted to stay here, the East Indians are without legal status, and he is now negotiating with the Provincial and Dominion Governments to gain for them full legal rights, he said.

"There is no security, naturally, in living in a country without legal protection, and as they are peace-loving and loyal subjects, I think this aspect of their domicile here warrants adjustment," Dr. Pandia stated.

Mentioning that there are four times as many Canadians employed in India—"where they enjoy full legal rights and protection"—as there are Hindus in Canada, he remarked that "it would seem only fair, since India is fighting in the common cause, that these men should be treated, not as aliens, but as fellow members of the British Commonwealth of Nations."

Dr. Pandia will leave shortly for Ottawa to take up this matter with Federal officials. He said that in view of the sympathetic attitude taken by Ottawa to the Hindus a year ago, "I feel confident that justice will be done to the small Hindu minority in this country, and it would be an appreciable factor in the harmony of Indian-Canadian relations."

MAYOR APPROVES
LIST OF VOTERSCourt of Revision Examines Names
Of Those to Exercise Franchise in December

Names of sixty-seven property owners were added to the civic voters' list by the court of revision at the City Hall yesterday. The names of forty-six former property owners were deleted. The court deleted from the list the names of 240 licensees and householders for non-payment of licenses and road taxes, for having moved from the city, for classification duplication on the list, and for having twice registered. Mayor Andrew McGavin certified the list correct, and was assisted by Aldermen Edward Williams and W. H. Davies. Copies of the list will be available at the City Hall next week on payment of a small fee.

Nominations for the majority five seats on the City Council and three on the school board will be accepted up to 2 o'clock on the afternoon of December 5. The elections will follow on December 12.

CITY REFUSED
NEW POWERSPrivate Bills Committee of House Denies Vancouver
Licensing Rights

The extraordinary licensing powers requested by the City of Vancouver annual charter amendments as submitted to the Private Bills Committee at the Legislature yesterday, were thrown out in their entirety in the final sitting of the committee on the bill, yesterday.

Similarly treated was the clause asking that the city be allowed to enter the gasoline business at such times it deemed necessary. The committee refused the application on the grounds that such a power would be a purely "paper" privilege; in view of the control exercised by the Fuel Control Board of Canada and present Provincial legislation.

The licensing amendment requested would have granted the City Council the privilege of refusing and revoking business licenses, almost at will.

The application for a change in the plumbing laws of the charter was granted, with but one amendment, deleting the need for an individual to ask the city's permission, and a permit, for cleaning or repairing plumbing fixtures. It was deemed expedient that a permit be required to install new plumbing fixtures, and that such should be open to inspection by city representatives.

OTHER CLAUSES

All other amendments to the charter were passed as presented. The committee passed the resolution to the effect that an appeal to the courts would not permit of a further reduction in property assessment when the city appeal board had already reduced the assessment by the required 10 per cent in the same year.

The committee expressed the opinion that the passing of such an amendment would reduce the appeal rights of both the wealthy and the not-so-wealthy to a common level. Otherwise they claimed that the well-to-do could afford to go to the Court of Appeal and possibly obtain a reduction in assessment, where others were financially unable to do so.

OTHER AMENDMENTS

Other amendments passed included the granting of the right to the city, through the proper authorities, of impounding any automobile that was operating without proper mechanical perfection or with danger to the public.

The Private Bills Committee also passed the bills dealing with the distribution of the estate of Edward Albert Tulk, deceased and the First Narrows Bridge Company, Limited, Act.

It was decided by the committee that the payment of taxes would have a prior right over other returns made on the bridge company. It was further stipulated in the act that no taxes, either on improvements or otherwise, shall be imposed on the bridge company other than the taxes already in force by both West Vancouver and Vancouver.

MAKING OF AN
ARMY DEPICTED"Letter From Camp Borden"
Is Impressive Film of Military Training

The answer to the question of thousands of civilians with sons, husbands or brothers in the army—the question of how their boys live in camp, what they learn and how they spend their leisure time—is contained in "Letter From Camp Borden," the latest in the series of "Canada Carries On" films, produced by the National Film Board of Canada.

The picture, showing in striking manner the making of a soldier and an army for the grim mechanized warfare against the Axis powers, opened its Victoria season at the Capitol Theatre yesterday. It illustrates the thorough training imparted to Canada's young recruits, from the day they enter the huge camp as " rookies," until the time, twenty-eight weeks later, when they can be pronounced trained soldiers, ready to meet the enemy with the advanced machines and weapons that distinguish the war of today from that of a quarter of a century ago.

While centering attention largely upon the importance of mechanized units and of the training of men to handle efficiently the machines of war, the film yet serves to show the vital need of trained infantry troops. It concludes with some impressive scenes during manoeuvres, carried out with the equipment and under the conditions of actual war.

SIFTON CHOSEN
ORDNANCE HEADWinnipeg Man Appointed
Acting Master-General of Branch at Ottawa

OTTAWA, Nov. 20 (CP)—Defence Minister Ralston announced in a statement yesterday the appointment of Victor W. Sifton, of Winnipeg, as Acting Master-General of the Ordnance Branch of the Defence Department, succeeding P. A. Chester, also of Winnipeg.

Mr. Sifton will assume his new duties immediately. In the past two months Mr. Sifton worked actively with Mr. Chester in reorganizing the Ordnance branch, and the announcement said "his familiarity with what has been accomplished will enable him to carry on the approved plans without interruption."

At the end of the month Mr. Sifton will relinquish his present appointment and return to his private capacity as general manager of the Hudson's Bay Company.

The Defence Department's statement said Mr. Sifton's appointment was made at the recommendation of Mr. Chester.

SERVES WITHOUT SALARY
Mr. Sifton will serve without salary. Like Mr. Chester, he will serve as a civilian at his Defence Department post.

Mr. Chester was appointed last August, succeeding Major-General W. H. P. Elkins, who was appointed officer commanding the Atlantic Command.

At that time it was said his services had been made available to the Government "for a limited period" by the Hudson's Bay Company. Mr. Chester was the first civilian appointed to the position of master-general of the Ordnance in the Defence Department.

UNCONQUERABLE SOULS

No doubt air raids on Birmingham and other cities of the Midlands, as in the case of Coventry, will be hailed in Berlin as more examples of "German thoroughness." The perfection of murder as a scientific art is a cardinal principle of the Nazi creed. The attack on Great Britain is now centred on the destruction of civilian lives, a method of warfare that is shameful in the sight of God and man. There is more than an exhibition of German mentality—or perhaps it would be more correct to say that mentality which governs Nazi methods—in the ghastly glee in the Third Reich which follows the results of such raids. There is a fiendishness incarnate in this aspect of War, and when it is finally, in the words of Milton "Hurl'd headlong flaming from the ethereal sky," whines will echo around the world for mercy.

Germany is making war on unarmed men, women and children, but what she can never destroy is the soul of the British people. It stands undismayed amid all the horrors of the time. Yesterday the mourners at the funeral of the victims of Coventry looked up with anger, not with fear, at a German bomber flying overhead. The mass murder has made them all the more determined to erase the Evil Thing responsible from the records of civilization. There is the same resolute will in every city, town, village and hamlet throughout the length and the breadth of Great Britain. That land is the heart of sacrifice, the pulse of suffering, but it is steadfast amid such diabolical scenes as have no parallel in history, persuaded that justice must triumph in the long run, and that the simple, elemental rights of man will be preserved; that moral worth and social righteousness will survive whatever may be the devastating force of the modern Caligula.

There is surely an analogy between the Apostles of old and the people of Great Britain today. St. Paul described the former in their mission for God, "as it were appointed to death," for we are made a spectacle unto the world, and to angels and to men. The soul of the British people stands firm for the cause of liberty in the midst of death, ruin and all the desolation that the power of a ruthless enemy can wreak. It is, indeed, a spectacle at which civilized humanity may well wonder, and, wondering, examine its own heart to find out where it stands in the struggle between Right and Wrong. The British people are acting in the cause, not proclaiming grand, swelling sentiments of liberty. In standing up, with deathless souls and unconquerable spirits in an era of frightfulness bent on their annihilation, they are making history on a scale for which the annals of human kind afford no precedent.

HUNGARY AN AXIS POWER

Another diplomatic move was consummated yesterday with the accession of Hungary to the Axis Powers. Hungary's sympathies have lain in that direction ever since the outbreak of the War, and the only interest in yesterday's mutual assistance agreement signed in Vienna is the extent to which it will facilitate Germany's proposed campaign in the Mediterranean area. Presumably a similar agreement will be signed with Bulgaria, thus providing another path for German troops to march on Greece, a country against which Italy has so badly mismanaged her campaign. The menace to Turkey is now becoming more pronounced, all the more so because Russia has been informed of what the Axis Powers have in contemplation, and, so far as is known, will be a quiescent factor in the developing situation. It is in anticipation of coming events that Herr Hitler is planning complete domination of Europe by the Axis Powers, of which Russia must be considered as one. That is the explanation of his recent conferences with representatives of the Soviet realm, of Bulgaria, Hungary, Spain and Vichy. By the display of power politics he is smoothing out the diplomatic front with the intention of striking against British power in the Mediterranean. He wants to establish land and air bases wherever he will in continental Europe, and possibly as well in the Spanish possessions in Africa. When these are made possible, new land offensives will be inaugurated. This is a prospect long anticipated by Great Britain. The latest developments proclaim anew the immense strength in man power that will be needed before the Axis Powers are defeated.

MR. EZRA HENNINGER'S PLATFORM

Mr. Ezra Henninger (Grand Forks), speaking in the Provincial Legislature, said: "What the Province requires is more democracy, more liberal policies, freer expenditures, and an administration that will so legislate that the Government and all its followers will be returned to power." This is a sweeping platform, perhaps one with unbounded implications. If Mr. Henninger favors "more democracy" there is no record of his voice having been raised against the repeated incursions of the present Provincial Government on the civil rights of the people of British Columbia. He did not oppose the Marketing Act, which enforces "compulsory co-operation." He approved the legislation which embodies the principle that the Government can interfere with and regulate prices of commodities, irrespective of the law of supply and demand. In these and other matters he favored putting shackles on democracy, not broadening its scope.

Mr. Henninger wants "freer expenditures," an expression which may be interpreted as more spendthrift zeal by politicians. Doubtless to him, as to so many political representatives of the party he supports, generosity in the expenditure of the taxpayers' money betokens what was described by a former Liberal Premier of this Province as—"to the victors belong the spoils."

must be a joy, indeed, to the heart of Mr. Henninger, that, for instance, the Liberal Government at Ottawa is so benevolent in the matter of expenditures that it allows staff motor cars of the Services to be used for domestic as well as for military purposes—a small matter, it is true, but expenditures are blowing.

Perhaps the strangest plank in Mr. Henninger's platform is his desire for an administration that will "so legislate that the Government and all its followers will be returned to power." The political stripe of that kind of government, Mr. Henninger believes, should be Liberal, which means that under the dispensation he favors there would always be forty-eight Liberal Members in the Legislature of this Province. That, in his conception, would be the ideal government. The constitutional history which is the basis of parliamentary institutions in this country does not bear out the pious hope of unanimous political thought expressed by the Member for Grand Forks, nor is it likely to come about, judging from experience. In the light of his knowledge of what present political life connotes, it is possible that Mr. Henninger is in a better position to judge than was Lord Macaulay. What the latter historian had to say of the Whigs and Tories in the stage they had developed to in his day is somewhat different to the "perfect government" that the Member for Grand Forks envisions. Macaulay wrote: "The truth is that though both parties have often seriously erred, England could have spared neither. If, in her institutions, freedom and order, the advantages arising from innovation and the advantages arising from prescription, have been combined to an extent elsewhere unknown, we may attribute this happy peculiarity to the strenuous conflicts and alternate victories of two rival confederacies of statesmen, a confederacy zealous for authority and antiquity, and a confederacy zealous for liberty and progress."

It would make for safety on the highways if the ambulance cars used in this Military District were equipped with sirens. Their approach then would be signalled to other motorists, who could give them right of way, and the purposes for which such ambulances are employed would be accelerated. A siren is a desirable accessory to any ambulance in these days.

"THEY ALSO SERVE"

More glorious August, none has ever seen, Earth never buxom, sky more serene; Bounty of Providence in ear and root, Trees breaking with the burden of their fruit. Yet in great air above each lovely thing Death is at large, destruction on the wing. Is it a shamefulness to laugh and run, Or stretch stiff joints to mellow in the sun? Too young for duty or, like me, too old? Dare we possess the pleasures we behold? Those need not grudge themselves their will to live Who give, and giving, seek whithersoever to give. Children, released from school, learn not the less What lesson each day brings of valiancy—For surely never since the world began Such risks were courted and such deeds were done. Arts we whose hearts exult—our very breath Grows daily precious in contempt of Death; Men hold Him lightly in the battle line, And now, their privilege is yours and mine: We claim we feel, our leaders understand the less A comradeship with each soul in the land, Led as we are, companioned as we are. We dread no fortune and we shun no star. Knowing no more, knowing ourselves not meant To know too much, we wait on the event. Till then, as soldiers may, we gladly seize Each chance of pleasantness, each hour of ease. But none the less, with those we shall be known Who for the world's deliverance fought alone—Stephen Grayson, in The Times, London.

Did it ever occur to you that what life does to everyone is to set each person a little apart from the rest? As if the poet said: "Look here, John (or Janet) Doe, here are the facts. Now as a reasonable person what are you going to do about them?" From then on for the rest of a lifetime—for it is a very long sum—individuals work at the answer. Perhaps, not all people see the sum like this. Indeed, there may be no two persons whose sum is precisely the same. But there is some uniformity in the method of approach; the dissimilarities falling into more or less well-worn channels.

For instance, there are those who will not work at the sum at all. They sit and sulk and complain that the individual sum is not a fair one; that life has taught them that the sum is not a fair one. However, that is what life is about: to find the answers not so much that any individual shall benefit, but that the very great experiment—started a long, long time ago, and likely to run for a long, long time to come—shall be worked out. Not to work at the sum of life is to fall in the first responsibility of a human being.

Then there are those who say that they know they cannot do so, without more help. That is a common and understandable complaint. Probably each person suffers a little from it at certain times. But, other things being equal, the amount of help that any person receives is confined by the amount of help extended to others and boosted by whatever is the initial stock of self-help brought to bear on the sum. Not a few people forget to make that initial contribution, the bit that any person can do for himself or herself.

One could go through the whole scale of human characteristics and show that some people will not try the sum at all; that others will attempt it with a little discouragement; that yet others will be satisfied to guess at the answer; and that some, not indeed many, will prefer to be left alone in working out a solution of their personal riddle. These, the last named, are like the salmon that swim upstream; the very swift swimmer is the one who, after a long swim, calls forth the best response. Be the sum what it may, and there are as many sums as there are human entities to wrestle with them, no sum has ever yet been solved by a person who will not try.

This column has for a long time admired the natural characteristics of the people of Canada. It has found among them many who are like the salmon that swim upstream. If one may speak of the whole spirit, that yet others will be satisfied to guess at the answer; and that some, not indeed many, will prefer to be left alone in working out a solution of their personal riddle. These, the last named, are like the salmon that swim upstream; the very swift swimmer is the one who, after a long swim, calls forth the best response. Be the sum what it may, and there are as many sums as there are human entities to wrestle with them, no sum has ever yet been solved by a person who will not try.

There is great need of continued tolerance today. Tolerance, after all, is the lubricant which keeps human beings from rubbing together and taking fire from men's friction. Get on in the right side, and a Canadian will concede to any man his individual road to Heaven, the free choice of books for his library, his own way of making himself a citizen or of going to the dogs if that be in his mind. The freedom of worship, the speech, the tolerance of all human society; the final blades which, throughout history, have ever cut down despotic thistles in the garden of humanity. Man will be free at the expense of even life itself.

It is in Parliament that these tolerances show, and show to some advantage. Under the surface of stress and strain free men are conceding to free men that which they would not do without themselves. Cling to your Parliaments, where there is genuine need of them. Let no man take them from you. He who tries has failed in the very start of his sum; his figures are inverted, and the answer will stand on its head. If there be any common denominator among nations, if there is one universal sum that remains to be worked out—sometimes, somewhere in the future—the answer is apt to be found in Tennyson's grand lines, in his "Parliament of Man." With all their many faults, Parliaments are yet the death of tyrants. May they continue to be so for many years to come!

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY.

(From The Daily Colonist of November 21, 1890.)

Wharf Lighting—The Attorney-General's Department, ably seconded by Turner, Beston & Co. are pressing upon the City Council the necessity of having the wharves and slips along the waterfront better lighted and protected. It is urged that, under the present condition of things, life and property are both in danger, and something must be done at once. At the last meeting of the Council a report was asked for upon the subject from the street and light committee, and they are now working upon it. They think that the wharf owners should supply their own lights, and will probably endeavor to make them do so.

U.P.R. Steamers—Captain J. W. Troup, manager of the Union Pacific water lines, came over from Portland last evening to arrange for docking the steamer Olympian, just as soon as the Islander resumes her regular route. The Sound flyer has not been thoroughly scraped for a couple of years, and this work is to be done at once, the steamer Schome taking her place while she is in dock.

Ever Improving—The Sir William Wallace Society is not a standing-still organization. At every meeting some new feature or improvement is suggested, and generally adopted. The society has now decided to purchase a first-class piano for concerts.

Those who enlist will be given short courses in elementary principles of fire fighting. They will be subject to call only in event of a major emergency.

The Observation Car

By THE EDITORIAL STAFF

Little for Lots
On a busy part of Fort Street a large automobile backed into a tiny English machine while squeezing out of a parking space. Out of an office spurted the state owner. "Hey, you. What's the big idea? Why don't you look where you're going? You're going to pay for that," he bellowed. The driver of the big car looked embarrassed as a small crowd hopelessly gathered to hear an argument, or be entertained by a fight. "What about it?" the small car owner shouted. "I'll pay for the damage. How much?" The other driver answered. "I'll settle for $2." The first replied in a somewhat quieter tone. "The money changed hands, and the big car was driven away. A friend of the other man strolled over to the small car. "It will not cost you more than seventy-five cents to straighten that bumper. Why did you ask for $2?" he queried. "Because the injury to my feelings was worth about $2," he was informed.—G.B.

That's a Racket!

If there is anything that a flock of crows dislikes more than being robbed of a chance to rob some smaller bird of its dinner it is having to go hungry while the big feathered creatures enjoy their meal. Throwing a few handfuls of crumbs out for the snowbirds, Bertie was very much annoyed when a squadron of crows made a power drive for their victuals and scattered their little rivals far and wide. The invaders' feast was short-lived, however, for Bertie's dog bounded out and made a power drive of his own for the crows who cawed and clawed their way to a tree top overhead. While the dog stood guard at the foot of the tree, the snowbirds returned to their luncheon and ate heartily, interrupted only by the racket from a dozen angry crows who dared not venture too close again.—W.F.

LIEUT.-GEN. SIR PERCY LAKE

He was a "Gentle Knight," and slow to wrath; But valiant was he in his Country's cause. He steadfastly pursued the virtuous path; And had respect for Truth and Nature's laws. He loved his fellow-men, and sought their good; Comrade-in-Arms he ever made his care. And in the forefront for them all ways stood; His modest means with them was proud to share. So he was held in nation-wide repute. And when he died men gathered round his bier, (A gallant soldier, passed to his reward) We feel "a Prince has fallen," as true Princes fall. —David Grievie Tuckwell, Victoria, B.C., November 19, 1940.

WOMEN'S AMBULANCE CORPS

Sir.—With reference to the statement in this morning's Colonist that I have guaranteed full co-operation with the above unit, I wish to make it quite plain that this is a complete exaggeration. At the moment I have little or no information concerning this organization.

MAIL ORDER FOOD PURCHASES

Sir.—At one large store here, perhaps at other stores, it is possible to place an order for food to be sent direct from the English manufacturer to an English address. One transaction enables an English friend to receive food which he cannot, I believe, buy direct, and an English manufacturer to make an export.

This information has only just reached me, so perhaps other readers may be glad of it.

"LET'S FACE THE FACTS"

Sir.—During the last decade the great masses of the people in the British Commonwealth of Nations and in the United States have been criminally indifferent to the dangers which threatened civilization and our political leaders—in possession of certain facts and information—instead of leading, waited for a lead and a push from the people before facing the facts and presenting them to our citizens.

The plea, made by our Dominion Premier in the House of Commons, that a government cannot do the things they think should be done, for fear the people would not let them, betrays a lamentable lack of faith in democracy and ignorance of the true functions of democratic leadership. Love of place and power cannot and must not take precedence of state security and welfare if democracy is to survive.

In spite of warnings and danger signals and Herr Hitler's announced intentions before this advent to power, allowed Germany to arise and become the strongest military organization the world has ever known. The British Empire—save for the British Navy—was practically disarmed and even the Navy was partially sacrificed by the treaties entered into by Ramsay MacDonald and with the United States.

So much for the past! What of the present and future? In Britain the blasting of homes, business places, churches and factories and the snuffing out of human lives is going on daily. There can be no air-tight defence against bombing raids, particularly night raids. Before this war is finished the loss of life and property damage will be enormous in the aggregate.

Submarines, mines and bombs are taking a toll daily of shipping and the lives of brave sailors. The financial strain imposed on the British people is staggering in its proportions. Guarded by the British Fleet, our homes and property in Canada are safe from destruction and, something like spectators at a football match, we are noting with interest, mingled with horror, the terrible events taking place in Britain. We must "go all out" to win the war and end it as soon as possible. Every man, woman and the youth of the country should be mobilized for work and fight. The war cannot be won by us by bombing and counter-bombing alone. It can be won by military action and military decision combined with naval and air co-operation.

There are about eighty million Germans in Germany, Austria and the conquered countries, and about forty-five million Italians. They have the enslaved labor of Europe to produce for them, leaving the vast majority of German and Italian men free for military service. It is two Axis powers can probably put armies of ten or twelve millions into the war. Britain, with a population of forty-six millions is vastly outnumbered, but if Canada and the rest of the Empire do their duty and "go all out," not with lip service only, we shall win with God's direction and help.

What is Canada's duty if we are to "go all out"? We should have at least twelve divisions of trained men available by the time planes and mechanized equipment render it possible to take the offensive in Europe.

These divisions, does that mean compulsory military service (conscription) for overseas? It does. We have got to like the word conscription and to be proud of it as the only really democratic way of preserving democracy against totalitarian methods.

Equality of sacrifice and service is a true democracy. Voluntary service is certainly noble but unfair, and tends to discourage our maximum effort.

How many or how few Churchill have we in Canada?

SPENCER PERCIVAL, Port Washington, B.C., November 18, 1940.

THE COMMUNITY CHEST

Sir.—I am sure it is a matter of great satisfaction to all that the Community Chest has been fully subscribed to, and the thanks of all are due to those unselfish canvassers who did their work so bravely. (I take courage.) It is, however, to be regretted that the chairman has administered a somewhat sweeping rebuke to those who did not subscribe, whom he considers should have done so. It is a rather common thing for good people who are particularly enthusiastic over some cause and have some way of helping it, to consider that those who do not wish to support that cause in that one way are not doing their duty. British Minister of Labor Says Social Security His Aim

Ernest Bevin Declares Whole Economic Life Should Be Devoted to the Improvement Of Community as a Whole

LONDON, Nov. 20 (P)—Ernest Bevin, Minister of Labor, told a gathering of London Rotarians today that his aim is social security. In the first public declaration by a Cabinet Minister on this aspect of war objectives, he asserted that at the end of the war, "and indeed during it," social security should be "the main motive of our national life."

"Begin now," he urged. "That doesn't mean that all profit and surpluses must be wiped out, but it means that the whole economic life shall be devoted to give security, not to a small middle class, but to the community as a whole."

UNEMPLOYMENT QUEUES
Discussing social implications of the war, he said the greatest arising from this struggle "is the drive for an effort to get rid of that horrible queue outside the Labor Exchange."

The Socialist Labor Minister said one of the biggest contributing factors to this war was the failure after the last one to erect an economic structure based on humanity.

He told a story of one unemployment exchange where the largest room was devoted to paying out the dole while the smallest one was for finding jobs. He said that must be stopped and the entire educational system would be halted, because "it is better to leave the masses untaught than to give them double appetite, both of stomach and head, and then not satisfy either."

DOLE NO SOLUTION
He feared that unless the community saw the importance of action at the end of this war the country would witness the same story of unemployment which followed the last and said a solution would not be found by merely adding a few shillings to the dole. "A new foundation must be built," Mr. Bevin declared. "It is no use Britain speaking to millions in Europe and other parts of the world in terms of Gladstone liberty. They must be offered a new feeling of hope."

"Things can never be as they were. The old age has passed. A new age has to be built."

JUDGE PETER S. LAMPMAN

Former Member of the British Columbia Bench and Senior Judge of the County Court, When He Retired Four Years Ago, Who Died at His Home Here Last Night.

Society and the National Council of Education. Whimsical, kindly, with appealing simplicity and directness of manner, he had friends in every walk of life, and few men on the bench have carried into retirement more good will and affection for he was not only one of the best-liked figures in legal circles, where he had the universal esteem of men in the upper and lower brackets of the profession alike, but he enjoyed great popularity with the still wider lay public with which he came in contact. As a judge he showed great ability and shrewd yet sympathetic understanding of human nature; as a man his great diversity of interests led to friendships in a very wide circle of those of kindred pursuit.

Besides the widow, Mrs. Lampman, who, before her marriage, was Miss Maud Prior, there survives one son, Thomas E. Lampman, of San Francisco, and there are also two grandchildren, Peter and Judy Lampman.

HUNGARY BECOMES MEMBER OF AXIS

Intention . . . to contribute within the limits of her power toward a better and happier political and economic reorganization of South-eastern Europe."

Hungary, the statement said, "thrown to the ground through the unjust, demoralizing Paris peace dictates," had turned to those powers "suffering from an equal fate" and, by German and Italian support, had regained territory from Czechoslovakia and recovered from Rumania the province of Transylvania "without spilling blood."

Shortly before the broadcast the Turkish Cabinet met in a one-hour extraordinary session, and later Premier Refik Saydam addressed a private meeting of a parliamentary committee.

The radio predicted Rumania would follow Hungary in signing up with the Axis, but asserted "there is still no sign that Bulgaria is going to change her policy. It is true that Bulgaria wishes certain territories, but it is also true that Bulgaria does not wish to lose entirely her independence. It seems Germany, recognizing that the war will last a long time, is trying to build an anti-English bloc in the name of the new order."

Some industrial stragglers were blacked out tonight for the first time since the war began.

NAMES MURRAY TO HEAD C.I.O.

Labor Organization Hears Plea for United Movement And Curb on "Isms"

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Nov. 20 (P)—Sidney Hillman had his innings today in his struggle with John L. Lewis over shaping of the future policies of Congress of Industrial Organizations. He used it virtually to nominate Philip Murray as Lewis' successor on a programme for a united labor movement and a curb on Communists, Nazis and Fascists in labor affairs.

From the same platform where Lewis yesterday bitterly attacked Hillman's Amalgamated Clothing Workers' Union and their demands for new conferences on labor peace, Hillman responded today with a speech for labor unity as a part of national defence.

DEMOCRATIC PROCESSES
He urged the C.I.O. to maintain the "democratic processes" in labor action, and expressed the hope that out of the convention "will come a stronger labor movement."

Hillman put the convention spotlight on Murray's availability for the C.I.O. presidency by telling the annual convention that when Lewis steps out there must be a "demand" for Murray.

Murray announced yesterday he does not want the office, and close friends said he has not wavered in his decision.

JUNIORS GIVEN CHANCE TO WIN

Cash Prizes Will Be Offered Younger Participants In Competition

A new departure in the residential lighting contest was announced at the Junior Chamber of Commerce yesterday. In the special class, the decoration of porches and doors for boys and girls under seventeen years, cash prizes will be awarded. In the other divisions, however, awards of high value will be made to the successful competitors.

Yesterday the City Council finance committee made a grant of $50 to assist the junior chamber in staging the Christmas lighting contest. Equimatt, the only other municipality to contribute, donated $25.

Entry forms for all divisions may be secured at the Chamber of Commerce on Saturday. No entrance fee is charged in the contest, which seeks to encourage decorated and lighted residences during the Yule season.

NEW CANDIDATE FOR REEVESHIP

W. L. Woodhouse Will Run
In Oak Bay After Captain
Ellis Withdraws

W. L. WOODHOUSE

W. Leonard Woodhouse, member of the Oak Bay Council in 1938 and 1939, announced last night that he would seek the municipal reeveship in the coming year. The present incumbent of the office, Captain William Ellis, has previously intended running for the office, but he was unable to do so because he was not eligible, due to a technicality in the sale and purchase of property.

At the end of his first two-year term in 1939, Mr. Woodhouse withdrew from municipal politics, but Councillor Ellis' withdrawal was believed to have influenced his opinion to seek the reeve's seat.

It is a custom in Oak Bay that members be elected to the council by acclamation, while there has not been a contest for the reeveship for some fifteen years.

This year Councillor Ellis sold his former home and purchased low-assessed property in the Uplands to build a new home.

"The peculiar thing about it is that while ownership of the property does not qualify me this year, I may run for office next year, due to improvements added to the property," Councillor Ellis said.

standing announcements in the minister's speech:
Contracts are being let for eighteen "large merchant vessels" for British Government account, to be built in St. Lawrence River and Pacific Coast yards.

NEW MODELS BANNED

New models of vehicles, radios and many household appliances have been prohibited as a means of conserving machine tool facilities.

Canada shortly will be making "practically every type of gun used in the present war."

Deliveries of clothing and personal equipment now are ample to meet needs of the armed forces.

"Substantial" tank production will start early in 1941, except for engines which must be imported.

Construction of aircraft engines is dependent upon obtaining machine tools from the United States.

Steel production is expected to be increased to 2,000,000 a month.

"Tires for motor equipment will be produced in Canada at a rate of 2,000 a day, with tubes."

KEEPING FIGURES SECRET
Mr. Howe said at the beginning of his speech that a recent cable from the Dominion Office in London "stresses the importance of carefully guarding production figures for munitions and supplies."

This placed him under a handicap, he said, but "we must appreciate that anything said here will represent an official report to enemy countries and for that reason definite production statements are unwise."

A much more detailed statement "can and will be forthcoming," Mr. Howe said, should it be decided to hold a secret session of the House.

The minister's speech was the feature of today's short sitting of the House.

There was virtually no interruption or questions during his presentation. He was followed by T. L. Church (Conservative, Toronto-Broadview).

Mr. Church said the Government had given the House no information regarding the war effort, despite the lengthy reports of some Cabinet ministers. The Government apparently believed the pen was mightier than the sword.

WANTS PRESENT SITUATION
The Government talked of 1943 and 1945. He wanted to know what the situation was at the moment.

The series of weekly radio talks entitled "Let's Face the Facts" had dealt with half-truths, not facts. He also criticized the large proportion of Americans invited to speak on that series.

W. F. Rickard (Liberal, Durham) said that while Ontario farmers were not getting enough for their produce, they were getting more under the present Government than under the last Conservative Government.

Hundreds of farmers were leaving their farms to take jobs in industry where they would make as much in two weeks as in three or four months on the farm.

"Are mine the only lips you have ever kissed?"
"Absolutely, darling. And the latest."

Misery Fast!

If you are suffering with discomfort of a head cold, enjoy the grand relief that comes when you use Vicks Vapo-r-nol. 3-purpose Vapo-r-nol is an effective because it does three important things—(1) shrinks swollen membranes—(2) soothes irritation—(3) helps flush out the nasal passages, clearing clogging mucus. And remember, if used in time, Vapo-r-nol helps to prevent many colds developing.

ANNOUNCE BURNING PLAN—The Province will provide special high school bursaries for the children of mothers in receipt of allowances under the Mothers' Allowance Regulations. It was announced yesterday by Hon. Dr. G. M. Weir. The bursaries will apply to students between the ages of sixteen and eighteen, inclusively, and may be of the value of $100 each. Only students whose further education would warrant their remaining at school will be applicable under the plan. It was explained.

Parcel Mails Heavy—Although Christmas is still five weeks away, there has been a definite and heavy increase in the parcel mails. Postmaster Gardiner stated yesterday at the Victoria Postoffice. The increase, which has been gaining impetus for weeks past, has, he thinks, less to do with the approaching Christmas season than with the feeling that the sending of parcels of food is one way of helping sufferers of the terrible air raids which have been going on over England, and particularly London, ever since the beginning of September.

Parcel mails, this year are at least ten times heavier than for the corresponding period last year, the contents being chiefly foodstuffs such as sugar, butter, tea, and Christmas puddings," he stated.

Mr. Gardiner urged people sending mails to the Old Land to get them off without delay, particularly parcels. Otherwise there is every possibility that they will not reach England in time.

Road Report Made—Snow has blocked the Big Bend Highway between Golden and Revelstoke. It was announced yesterday by the Provincial Department of Public Works. Vancouver Island and Lower Mainland highways are open for travel throughout, the report added.

Mishap—Mrs. M. Pebernat, 837 Devonshire Road, while driving on Rock Bay Avenue, collided with a car which was being ridden west on John Street by Alex Bennett, 280 View Royal Road, police reported. Bennett's car was forced off the road, through a fence and against a nearby house.

Wallet Found—A wallet containing $65 in cash and two cheques with a face value of $65, stolen from C. W. Hawkins at the St. James Hotel on October 28, was found under a stair carpet yesterday morning. The cash was missing. Also with the empty wallet were a wrist watch and two teaspoons.

Tame Pheasants Released—The British Columbia Game Board released 14,617 homed pheasants this year, at an average cost of $1.30 per bird when twelve weeks old. Hon. G. S. Wiener said yesterday in the Legislature in answer to questions.

Plane Pictures—Photographs of an airplane purchased by citizens through the air supremacy campaign will be forwarded in the near future, according to a letter received by Mayor Andrew McAvlin from the Minister of Defence for Air. The machine will be stationed at Patricia Bay.

Robbed—Mrs. W. Craig, 3840 Rowland Avenue, Saanich, told police she picked up a soldier on the Craigflower Bridge at 9:15 p.m. and drove him as far as Douglas Street and Kings Road, at which point he got out. She later discovered he was carrying a marriage licence, bankbook, registration card and four dollars was missing.

Room Looted—A room in a downtown hotel, occupied by C. W. Hawkins, was looted yesterday morning between 6:30 and 8 o'clock, police were informed. The room was ransacked and a wallet containing $65, a registration card and two cheques, one for $50 and the other for $15 payable to C. W. Hawkins, was missing.

Is Remanded—Peter Larsen, charged with the armed robbery of Mrs. Thora Turley on November 14, pleaded guilty in the city police court and elected for summary trial yesterday morning. He was remanded until tomorrow morning by Magistrate Henry C. Hall. J. G. Rutan appeared for the accused under the free legal aid plan of the Victoria Bar Association.

War Contracts Given—War supply contracts announced yesterday by the Department of Trade and Industry included 8,000 pairs of army trousers to be supplied by Hall & Company, Victoria, 10,000 pairs of overall combinations to be supplied by Galt Bros., Ltd., Vancouver, and 30,000 pairs of overall combinations to be supplied by the Jones Tent & Awning Company, Vancouver.

The maximum temperature observed on the grounds of the Strathcona Hotel was 43 degrees and the minimum 38 degrees. The precipitation at the latter location was 29 inch.

Conservatives to Meet—The completion of an adjourned meeting which was held last May, will take place on December 4 for the election of officers for the Victoria Provincial Conservative Association. The ward chairmen have been advised to notify all members in their wards that nominations must be handed in, in writing, with the names of sponsors at or before the meeting on December 4.

Hit by Car—Roland Wilson, 2641 Cadboro Bay Road, was injured yesterday afternoon at the corner of Todd and Cadboro Bay Roads when struck by a car which, police said, was driven by Thomas Mercer, of Tes Mile Point. The injured man was conveyed to the Jubilee Hospital by C. & C. ambulance and was treated by Dr. E. L. McNeil for a fractured leg and slight scalp wounds.

Oppose Suggestion—At its meeting last night the Saanich School Board expressed opposition to the Provincial Government plan to assume full liability for current pensions if municipalities assumed 7 per cent of the teaching payroll in contributions to commence January 1, 1942. A plan from H. H. Allen, municipal engineer, to subdivide Lake Hill School property into eight lots, to be put up for sale, was also examined.

Very Rev. Spencer H. Elliott, Dean of Columbia, in opening the annual missionary sale of work held yesterday afternoon in the Memorial Hall, by the Senior Evening, Business Women and Girls Branches of Christ Church Cathedral W.A., thanked the branches for carrying on their work so faithfully, and emphasized the need of continuous service for the church, especially now that the Church of England in Canada has been cut off from its financial assistance from England on account of the war. About $300 was made at the sale and the proceeds will be divided among the three branches.

Miss M. Hill, president of the business women's branch and general convener of the sale, was assisted by Miss Peggy Fatt, president of the business women's branch; Miss Beatrice Mullen, leader of the girls' branch, and Mrs. Spencer Elliott, in receiving the guests. The stalls were attractively decorated in autumn colors and displayed many novelties and gift suggestions for Christmas. The conveners were as follows: Home cooking, Mrs. Small and Miss Jones; girls' branch stall, Miss Mullen and members of the business women's branch, with Mrs. C. It is the intention of the members to have readings and voluntary entertainment of an educational nature while they knit and sew. Arrangements were made for a card party to be held in the Y.W.C.A. clubroom in the near future. The following officers were elected: President, Miss Eva Campbell; secretary, Miss Dorothy Boyd; treasurer, Miss Peggy Turnbull; press correspondent, Miss Velva Thompson. During the business meeting, which preceded the address, plans for the annual luncheon, to be held at the home of Mrs. J. H. Fletcher on December 2, were discussed. Mrs. Alister Campbell presented the report of the nominating committee and a slate of officers will be voted upon at the next meeting. The worship period, conducted by the president, Mrs. K. O. Wright, was followed by a duet sung by Mrs. Murray Anderson and Mrs. Walter Fletcher, accompanied by Mrs. John Gough. Tea was served by the hostess, who was assisted by Mrs. James Dickson, Mrs. H. These will be prepared for shipment on Friday, November 29. A special letter of appreciation will be sent to the members of the Schubert Club of Victoria, thanking them for their co-operation in presenting their recent concert. The purchase of fuel for the church was authorized and ordered paid. Mrs. A. Hallett and Mrs. W. C. Batchelor were retained on the visiting committee for another month. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. A. Sutton. Tea was served by Mrs. T. Warwick and Mrs. Gibson.

Women Are Anxious to Form Corps

Several hundred young women attended a meeting last evening in the Empress Hotel ballroom when Mrs. Jessie M. Clegg, secretary of the Women's Ambulance Corps and her assistants, Mrs. D. Buscombe Macfarlane and Mrs. Charles Robinson, all of Vancouver, explained the aims of the corps and plans for the formation of a group in Victoria. It had been the hope, Mrs. Clegg, the chairman, explained, that she would be able to address a gathering of perhaps twenty or thirty women in Victoria who might be interested in starting an ambulance corps, and expressed her amazement and delight at the response with which the announcement of the meeting had been welcomed and the interest shown by approximately 150 young women who had already made application for membership.

LOCAL LEADERS

Mrs. Clegg announced that the corps would have as its leaders program, Mrs. J. F. A. Lister and Mrs. G. P. A. Thompson, secretary, and commander, respectively, and Mrs. Barclay-Ross, treasurer. The corps members would be studied as well as first aid and advanced field nursing, wireless telegraphy, archery, motor mechanics, truck and automobile driving and a motor-cycling corps as a branch of the regular activities. She went on to emphasize the necessity for preparedness and of attaining a degree of efficiency which would be worthy of Government recognition.

Mrs. Macfarlane and Mrs. Robinson spoke briefly of details connected with organization, experienced in Vancouver, where there are between 700 and 800 members. It was to the credit of the corps that 126 expert truck drivers had been produced in less than a month and a large class of A.R.P. students had completed their training. Map reading was another branch of the work which was being taught.

Mr. Frank Bird, of Vancouver, an official of the B.C. Automobile Association, addressed the meeting briefly and introduced Reeve J. B. Leyland, of West Vancouver, first vice-president of the B.C. Automobile Association, who advised that the Canadian Automobile Association in Ottawa had sent out a call to all branches to organize and that the response had been gratifying. Mr. Leo Sweeney, director of the B.C. Automobile Association added a few words of encouragement to the new group and spoke of the co-operation being received from the A.R.P. Reeve Leyland and Mrs. Clegg each referred to "another organization already in Victoria" and organized on lines similar to those arranged for the Women's Ambulance Corps. This should create no feeling of jealousy, they added, rather it should be the means of healthy and friendly competition.

GIVES SUGGESTION

Mrs. Clegg suggested that the Victoria corps, when fully organized, should enlist the help of the army and should request the use of new G.P.R. trucks for driving experience. She felt sure, she said, that expert instructors in the various subjects included in the course could be easily found.

A registration desk has been set up in the Strathcona Hotel, it was stated, and applications and further details could be obtained there. Mrs. F. J. Rolston, president of the Women's Canadian Club, who was present at the meeting, spoke of the interest which is being shown by her club in all the undertakings of the corps and wished the Victoria organization every success.

Canteen W.A.
To Celebrate
At Yuletide

A meeting of the Three Services Women's Auxiliary was held at the Y.W.C.A. on Tuesday. The president, Miss Violet Wilson, in the chair, conveyed the thanks of the Salvation Army through Brigadier Parker to the members of the Auxiliary for their work and co-operation at the canteen on Broad Street. She announced with regret the resignation of Mrs. Ridewood as secretary, and the appointment of Mrs. R. R. Brough for that post.

Following the established policy of assisting all canteens and benefactions where possible, the following donations were announced: Twenty-five dollars to the Knights of Columbus, Esquimalt; twenty-five dollars to the Y.W.C.A. for Sunday tea for troops; twenty-five dollars to Mrs. Alan Morrell, president of the proposed new dance canteen on Port Street.

The Y.W.C.A. war-services committee having asked for a delegate from the Three Services Auxiliary, Miss Sara Spencer was appointed. Mrs. Donald Campbell showed a fine design for a badge for the organization, and was authorized to go into the question of materials and costs.

The date for the annual meeting was set for Monday night, January 13, in the Y.W.C.A., and Mrs. Carew Martin was appointed convener of the nominating committee.

It was decided to have an afternoon reception at the canteen on Boxing Day, when the men will be asked to bring their friends and families. This will be a joint undertaking of the Salvation Army and the Three Services Auxiliary. Mrs. L. G. W. Tallamy was appointed convener. Christmas decorations were placed in the hands of Miss Mary Campbell.

Volunteers were called for serving the Sunday breakfasts, assisting the Y.W.C.A. at their dances, and for drivers to take charge of cars for the Sunday drives for troops.

Gifts of pillows and of current issues of popular magazines, it was stated, would be appreciated. These may be left at the canteen on Broad Street.

Groups Raise
Over $400 at
Sale and Tea

The Christmas motif was used in decorations at the bazaar held yesterday afternoon by the combined groups of the Women's Association of the First United Church in the gymnasium and Sunday school room. The fourteen groups shared the honors of raising over $400 which will go towards the church fund. Mrs. A. E. Whitehouse opened the affair and was introduced by the general convener, Mrs. W. E. Dawson, and was presented with a bouquet of chrysanthemums by little Colin Nicolson.

Mrs. J. B. Munro, president of the Women's Association, Mrs. Hugh McLeod and Mrs. Dawson received the guests. Tea was served under the direction of Mrs. Hudson at individual tables in the Sunday school room, which was decorated with greenery and Christmas colors. Standing outside the entrance to the tearoom was an imitation Santa Claus.

The stalls were beautifully decorated and made a fine display in the gymnasium, which was attractive with greenery and Christmas decorations. The stalls included home

Little Stories for Bedtime

Lightfoot Does the Wise Thing
By THORNTON W. BURGESS

All the rest of that day, the hunter with the terrible gun lay hidden in the bushes of the pasture where he could watch for Lightfoot the Deer to leave the place of safety he had found when he awoke across the Big River. It required a lot of patience on the part of the hunter, but the hunter had plenty of patience. It sometimes seems as if hunters have more patience than any other people.

But this hunter waited in vain. Jolly, round, red Mr. Sun sank down in the west to his bed behind the Purple Hills. The Black Shadows crept out and grew blacker. One by one the stars began to twinkle. Still the hunter waited, and still there was no sign of Lightfoot. At last it became so dark that it was useless for the hunter to remain longer.

Disappointed and once more becoming angry, he paced back to the Big River, got into his boat, and rowed across to the other side. Then he tramped home and his thoughts were very bitter. He knew that he would have shot Lightfoot had it not been for the man who had protected Lightfoot. He even began to suspect that this man had himself killed Lightfoot, for he had been sure that as soon as he had become reared Lightfoot would start for the woods and Lightfoot had done nothing of the kind. In fact, the hunter had not had so much as another glimpse of Lightfoot.

The reason the hunter had been so disappointed was that Lightfoot was smart. He was smart enough to understand that the man who was saving him from the hunter had done it because he was a true friend. All afternoon Lightfoot had rested on a bed of soft hay in an open shed and had watched this man, and about his work and taking the utmost care to do nothing to frighten him.

"He not only will let no one else harm me, but he himself will not harm me," thought Lightfoot. "As long as he is near I am safe. I'll stay right around here until the hunting season is over, then I'll swim back across the Big River to my home in the dear Green Forest."

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your bowels don't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Bile is the life force of the body, and you feel sour, sick and the world looks pink.

A more bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of a hundred but have no action on the bowels. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. It's the only one that will do the work.

MENTAL AND PHYSICAL TIREDNESS MAY BRING ON NOSE AND THROAT INFECTIONS

When a cold in the head occurs, the first thought in the mind of many is to take a purgative and then begin to use a salt or oil solution up into the nose. Nose, throat and lung specialists advise this very "active" treatment of a cold is unwise and that rest in bed and leaving the nose and throat alone would give better results.

Some valuable information about the treatment of colds and infections of nose, throat and sinuses is given by Dr. Arlie B. Bock in "Annals of Internal Medicine." Dr. Bock tells of the care of 1,667 patients with the above infections treated at St. James' Throat, Nose and Ear Hospital, from September, 1935, to March, 1939. The patients

Painful, Pus Filled Boils the Cause of Much Misery

If you suffer from boils you know how sick and miserable they make you feel. Boils are an outward indication of impurities in the system, and just when you think you are rid of one another erupts up to take its place and prolong your misery. All the lancing and poulticing you can do may not stop more coming.

To help overcome boils you should purify the blood, so why not give that old, reliable blood medicine, Burdock Blood Bitters, a chance to show what it will do in helping you get rid of them? Thousands have used it for this purpose for the past 60 years. Why not you?

LONG WATER
TRIP ENDEDAirmen From Australia and New Zealand Eager to Complete Training

Each province of Australia and all the principal islands that go to make up the New Zealand group contributed to the contingents of fine young airmen who arrived at this West Coast Canadian port early yesterday morning. All expressed pleasure at getting the month-long water journey over with and stated they were eagerly looking forward to joining their Canadian comrades-to-be in the finishing courses which will enable them to go across the Atlantic in the quickest possible time as pilots, gunners and observers.

The young flyers represented all walks of civil life. In the ranks of the R.A.A.F. and the R.N.Z.A.F. were lawyers, commercial travelers, clerks, businessmen and mechanics, all of whom appeared splendidly smart as they paraded on the local dock to be welcomed to Canada by Government and air officials, including Premier T. D. Pattullo, Air Commodore A. E. Godfrey, R.C.A.F., Brigadier "Sutherland" Brown, Air Vice-Marshal S. J. Goble, R.A.A.F., air liaison officer for Australia at Ottawa; Group Captain G. A. Mercer, Flying Officer B. D. Dewitt, Flying Officer A. Buckle, Flight Lieutenant L. R. Rae and Flight Lieutenant Gordon Diamond.

The Australians, wearing dark blue uniforms, were in charge of Flight Lieutenants L. Collings and R. A. Oakley, while the New Zealanders, in grey-blue uniforms, arrived under command of Flight Lieutenant G. E. Yates and J. McDonald. Although the weather was fine and the sea smooth, the long trip from "down under" was never monotonous, daily drills and recreational periods occupying a considerable portion of the time.

The liner was played into the dock by the band of the Royal Canadian Air Force, under Bandmaster Tuttle, and she was played out on the last stage of the flyers' water journey, for the present anyway, by the same music-discouraging organization, the flyers from the Southern Dominions lining the upper rails of the ship, shouting their "coo-ees" and singing spirited marching and soldier songs.

Mustered in the dock shed shortly after their ship tied up, Premier Pattullo, addressing the airmen, said: "On behalf of the Government and people, I extend to you a most cordial welcome. A few days ago I had a similar pleasure in greeting air recruits from the Straits Settlements. You have come a long way, but you are still at home—at home anywhere in the Empire. The best of luck and God bless you."

Speaking for the Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, Brigadier Brown said: "I bid you welcome and hope you will have a pleasant time here. While you are in Canada, the Canadian people will be deeply interested in you and will give you a good send-off when you are ready to go overseas, where there is work to be done."

R.C.A.F. GREETING

On behalf of the Royal Canadian Air Force, Air Commodore Godfrey addressed the group as follows: "This is the third time I have had the pleasure and privilege of extending a word of welcome to trainees from Australia and New Zealand. Every airman present will form part of the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan on Canadian soil. There is not a man in the contingent who does not have a keen desire in his heart to complete training as soon as possible and go overseas to join his fellow airmen of the Royal Air Force and fight shoulder to shoulder against our common enemy. . . . By the constant stream pouring in from the Dominions will Britain's air supremacy be assured and victory made inevitable."

Air Vice-Marshal Goble, concluding the welcoming addresses, saying: "I hope you will have a good time here. I can assure you that you will make many fine friends among Canadians while you are completing your training in this country."

LONDON, Nov. 20 (CP).—A Wednesday Admiralty communique said: "During last night some of our light forces made contact with a German E-boat in the North Sea. The E-boat was sunk, and survivors were picked up by our forces, which sustained no damage or casualties."

ST. HUBERT, Que., Nov. 20 (CP).—Two airmen were injured slightly today at nearby St. Hubert airport in the crash of a bomber, which caught fire as it was taking off.

An official described the bomber only as "a new aircraft which was awaiting delivery." He said that two of the crew—one of whose names was made public—suffered superficial injuries when the bomber hit the ground.

There were three men aboard the aircraft, which crashed beyond the airport. An ambulance was rushed from the airport to treat them.

The flames were extinguished and the bomber was saved from destruction by fire.

PASS ON TWO RESOLUTIONSLongshoremen Interested in Old Age Pensions and Compensation Act

At a meeting of the British Columbia Council of Longshoremen held at Victoria on Saturday, the question of old age pensions was fully discussed, as well as the desirability of making some changes in the Compensation Act, after which the following resolution was passed and ordered sent to the Minister of Pensions, Ottawa: The Premier of British Columbia, and the Minister of Labor, Victoria:

"Resolved that in the opinion of this council assembled in Victoria, B.C., November 16, the old age pension should be increased to $50 per month and that the age should be lowered to sixty years, irrespective of the financial standing of the recipient."

In connection with the suggested changes to the Compensation Act, the following resolution and clause to be inserted were approved: "That the members of the Legislative Assembly be contacted by each organization with a view to having the Compensation Act opened up at the present session and the following clause inserted in the act, which would constitute an appeal board and would insure that no worker would be returned to work when he was unable to do the work as the result of his injury."

CLAUSE SUGGESTED

Clause: "If a workman who has so far recovered from the injury as to be fit for employment of a certain kind proves to the satisfaction of the Judge of the County Court that he has taken all reasonable steps to obtain, and has failed to obtain such employment as a consequence wholly, or mainly, of the injury, the judge shall order that his incapacity shall, for the purpose of this act, continue to be treated as total incapacity for such period and subject to such conditions as may be proved by the order, without prejudice, however, to the right conferred by this act."

The British Columbia Council of Longshoremen was formed in 1937, and is composed of the following organizations: Victoria Longshoremen's Association, Victoria Vancouver Longshoremen's Association, Vancouver Burrard Coastwise Longshoremen's Association, Vancouver Chemainus and District Longshoremen's Association, Chemainus North Vancouver Longshoremen's Association, North Vancouver Royal City Waterfront Workers' Association, New Westminster Canadian Waterfront Workers' Association, Vancouver and Alberni District Waterfront Workers' Association.

Salvagers Busy on Wreckage of Scuttled Battleship Graf Spee

NEW WESTMINSTER, Nov. 20 (CP).—American sailors arriving from South America brought with them rumors that the wreckage of the German pocket battleship Graf Spee, scuttled after the Battle of the Rio Plate, is being salvaged and sent back to Britain to be used in war equipment.

The report was carried by crew members of the City of Flint, United States freighter which assisted in rescue of the Athenia survivors, and was later held as a Nazi prize. The vessel, now on the South American run, is unloading here.

Sailors from the City of Flint said that the wreckage of the Graf Spee is still to be seen off Montevideo, slowly sinking deeper and deeper into the mud. Rumors there credited British interests with acquiring parts of the wreckage and shipping them to England.

QUERIES BRIDGE LIGHTING BILLS

H. E. Winch, C.C.F., Asks About Pattullo Span Illumination Charges

At the meeting of the Public Accounts Committee at the Legislature yesterday, H. E. Winch, C.C.F., Vancouver East, asked for an explanation of the two electric lighting bills submitted for the lighting of the Pattullo Bridge.

The two bills, one submitted by the B.C. Electric, and the other by the city of New Westminster, are based on different charge rates, and for varying amounts. It was explained that the line of division for the bridge between New Westminster and Vancouver was at the centre line, and each district was responsible for the lighting of each half.

The committee will hear further reports on the charges when it is determined whether or not the bridge is serviced by one or two transformers, and the power supplied by either one or both companies.

RENTAL CHARGES

Also brought forward by H. E. Winch at the sitting of the Public Accounts Committee was the question of rental for the various governmental offices throughout the city of Vancouver.

Claiming that the governmental offices throughout the city in different buildings were paying extremely high rentals, Mr. Winch

INFLUENZA EPIDEMIC IS UNDER CONTROL

MULGRAVE, N.S., Nov. 20 (CP).—An epidemic of influenza has left 170 soldiers as patients in the military encampment here, but officials reported today the outbreak was under control.

The disease is of a mild type and none of the soldiers' condition is serious, camp authorities said. All the patients have been isolated. The epidemic started about a week ago. A few new cases are cropping up from day to day, officials said, but this is considered a normal development in view of the extent of the original outbreak.

Miss Gloria Wilson, in Red Cross uniform, is shown in the above picture acknowledging the token payment of $35,000 handed over to the Red Cross Society at the "victory" luncheon meeting of Community Chest and Red Cross campaign workers on Tuesday afternoon. The cheque, representing the first payment to the Red Cross, with expectation of more to follow as late donations are received, was presented by F. E. Winslow, chairman of the Community Chest. On the left in the picture is Miss Sara Spencer, chairman of the women's division, which exceeded its quota in the canvass by more than $3,600, and on Miss Wilson's left sits Duncan MacBride, campaign chairman.

HELLENIC UNIT RAISES FUNDS

Sum of $1,443 Is Realized At Parley Held in Chamber of Commerce

Shouts of "Long live Great Britain," "Long live our glorious Allies," "Success to our beloved country," and "Down with Fascism and Nazism," echoed through the Chamber of Commerce auditorium yesterday afternoon, when members of the Hellenic War Relief Society gathered from the Greek vessels in port to emphasize the necessity of assisting war victims in their country's struggle against Fascism and Nazism. They were confident of an ultimate sweeping victory.

Stylized by the chairman, outlined plans for a procession of Greek sailors through the city, co-operation with other war relief organizations, and a dance for the visiting Greeks. He stated that complete figures on the amount collected for war victims would be available on Saturday.

Miss Mary Alexis, financial secretary, reported that expenses of the society to date were $725.

Association Hears Talk By Member

"Approach to Chamber Music" was the subject of an address given to the November meeting of the Victoria Music Teachers' Association yesterday morning by Miss J. N. Wilkinson, who traced the growth of the quartette, and showed how chamber music had been gradually influenced by church music and the rhythm of the dance.

In Elizabethan days, when the madrigal was sung at all family gatherings, the place of any absent member was taken by a viol, this being the origin of the creation of parts for stringed instruments in the madrigal music.

The viol family, it was shown, were the ancestors of the violin, and some interesting other facts were told about the earlier instruments. Changes in violin technique were brought about by Corelli, on whose method the present-day technique was based. The growth of the quartette style down to the contrapuntal style down to the Beethoven quartette, and records from Haydn and Beethoven quartettes were played for illustration.

The Grigorio Allegri quartette was analyzed as an illustration in contrapuntal style, parts being

Slobodian to Be Out of Game for Considerable Time

Has Cheekbone Fractured in Three Places as a Result of Tussle With Rangers—Coulter to Be Missed for Three Weeks—Earl Robertson and Dutch Hiller Are Also on List

NEW YORK, Nov. 20 (CP)—Hospital reports tonight showed three players, possibly four, suffered injuries in last night's New York Rangers-American National Hockey League game of sufficient importance to keep them out of action.

The most serious injury in a hard-fought game was suffered by Pete Slobodian, rookie American defenseman from Regina. His left cheekbone was fractured in three places and he had a large eye-swell. He will be out five weeks or more.

Art Coulter, Rangers' veteran defenseman, suffered a fractured small bone in his right shoulder. X-ray examination showed. He was allowed to go home, the arm tightly strapped. He will play no hockey for at least three weeks.

These two injuries were known after the game, although it was not until X-ray pictures were studied that the extent was determined. An unexpected injury developed today when Earl Robertson, American goalie, found he could not move a badly-sprained left shoulder. Dr. Vincent Nardello said. It was sprained and that "Robbie" would have to stay out of tomorrow night's game here against Toronto Maple Leafs.

FOURTH INJURY
The fourth injury was suffered by Dutch Hiller, out by a skate on the ice. While requiring only one stitch, the wound was deep and painful. Coach Frank Boucher was not sure whether Hiller will be back for the Rangers' next game.

The question of replacements for these players was under study throughout the day. Final decisions were:

Americans: Manager Red Dutton summoned Goale, Charlie Boucher from Eddie Shore's Springfield Indians to fill in for Robertson, and decided to use veteran Hooley Smith on defense, beside Charlie Conacher, for the duration of Slobodian's absence.

Rangers: Boucher said he would carry on with three defensemen, Babe Pratt, Ott Heller and Murray Patrick, but that one of his forwards, either Neil Colville, Alf Pike or Lynn Patrick, would take occasional turns in defense to help out. If Dutch Hiller cannot play Saturday, Boucher will get a forward from Philadelphia Ramblers, possibly Bill Alim.

Slobodian suffered his injury, Dutton said, because he has not had enough experience to guard against hurra.

When Slobodian and Phil Watson collided during a Ranger attack on the American's goal, Watson automatically pushed out with his stick to protect himself, and the stick struck Slobodian's cheek.

"Slobodian didn't," Dutton said. "I told Pete how to protect himself, by coming up with his stick, but he forgot." Dutton absolved Watson of any blame.

CALM MANAGER AT CLEVELAND
Roger Peckinpah Will Be Able to Hold Players From Revolving

CLEVELAND, Nov. 20 (AP)—The turbulent Cleveland Indians will play next season for the calmest man in baseball.

Roger Peckinpah, who starts his task tonight with a two-year contract, is one of those persons who counts to 1,000 before acting.

With the baseball world wondering what he will do with a group of players who revolted against their 1940 manager, Peckinpah recalled today that he had had discipline trouble only once in his 1928-33 regime at Cleveland.

This rift came in 1932 when Wes Ferrell, his ace pitcher, objected to being taken out of a close game. Wes made a few remarks on his way to the bench and mumbled a few more after sitting down.

Peckinpah didn't decide to suspend Ferrell quickly. He thought it over for the rest of the game and then gave him a ten-day rest without pay. Today Ferrell is one of his best friends.

Peck started his diamond career on the Cleveland sandlots and caught on with the old Cleveland Naps in 1910. Since that time "Pop" has had only one job outside a baseball uniform—the American League promotional assignment which he gave up to take over the Indians.

A light but timely humor, Peck was one of the great shortstops of his time, and was selected the league's most valuable player while with Washington in 1925.

FLYING FORTRESSES
At the same time, the Army High Command disclosed negotiations are under way for the release of twenty B-17C bombers, the four-engine "flying fortresses" made by the Boeing Aircraft Corporation at Seattle, Wash. The "flying fortresses," General Marshall said, would be equipped with armament and everything else except the secret Norden bomb sight.

Asked whether the negotiations involved "flying fortresses" already delivered to enemy depots or those soon to come from the production line, General Marshall replied that would depend upon whether it was faster to replace the Norden bomb sight in existing planes, or to make the change over to other type sights on the production line.

Both the B-17s and the B-24s are long-range bombers capable of carrying tons of high explosives from the British Isles to any part of Germany. They weigh in the neighborhood of 40,000 pounds each, and General Marshall indicated they have a range with bombs of about 3,000 miles—1,500 miles out and 1,500 miles back.

PRACTICAL TESTS
Primary purpose of the release of the flying fortresses, from the viewpoint of the United States, was to obtain an actual service test of this plane, no comparable plane having ever been used in actual operations, Marshall said.

"Such a test will enable us to make desired modifications in planes now under contract for future delivery," he added.

It was indicated six of the Consolidated bombers would be delivered to Britain by the first of the year and ten in January. They may be flown across the Atlantic.

DETAILS OF BOMBERS
SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 20 (AP)—The first of a fleet of four-motored, long-range Consolidated bombers, which the United States Army High Command announced today had been released to Great Britain, received its initial tests here November 2.

The plane was camouflaged and carried the insignia of the Royal Air Force.

The bomber, known as the B-24, weighs twenty tons, has a cruising radius of 3,000 miles and a speed of 300 miles an hour. On long-distance flights it carries a crew of nine, including three bombardiers and gunners, and four tons of demolition bombs.

The four Pratt-Whitney engines, each of 1,200 horsepower, eight-cylinder and radial-air cooled. The three-bladed Hamilton hydro-matic propellers are twelve feet in diameter. The plane's wing span is 110 feet, the fuselage sixty-four feet long and the overall height nineteen feet.

The retractable gear is unique in that the front wheel folds back into the fuselage when the plane is in flight while the rear wheels retract into wing wells.

BLUE BOMBERS ARE TRAINING

Winnipeg Gridders Preparing for Series Which May Take Place

WINNIPEG, Nov. 20 (CP)—Winnipeg's power-laden Blue Bombers today continued practicing for a football game which may never take place. Bombers resumed drills this week.

The blue and gold warriors are brushing up on Canadian Rugby Union rules. All practices are being held under these regulations because if the East-West game, sponsored by the Sport Service League of Ontario, takes place in Toronto on December 7, it will be played under rules of the parent body.

Manager Joe Ryan, of Bombers, reports that all his players are in good shape, free from injury. Ryan said today he still had received no word from Eastern Canada that the East-West game is definitely "on."

The Bomber manager said no arrangements had been made for an exhibition game here to keep the Winnipeg team on edge. He added, however, that if the squad goes East it will welcome a warm-up contest with an Eastern club prior to the battle with the Eastern champions.

In any event, Bombers would travel a week ahead of the East-West unofficial final date because colder weather might interfere with outdoor practices here.

ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE LESSENS ASSAULT

Heavy anti-aircraft fire met the Midland raiders, but they dove through the perilous bursts and came on, wave after wave. Observers on a hilltop said there were terrific explosions every second.

START OF NEW CAMPAIGN
British authorities had waited grimly for a repetition of the assaults which many believe to be the opening of a new and intensive campaign of night bombing directed at the industrial areas, instead of London.

(The British Air Ministry did not mention any towns attacked last night. The German High Command claimed Birmingham, second largest industrial city in England, was one of the targets.)

The nine-hour attack Tuesday night left a down town strewn with wreckage. Official descriptions said the damage was heavy. There was an undisclosed number of casualties.

Such an aerial offensive—in its worst form as seen in the attack on Coventry last Thursday—has been expected by the Royal Air Force and the army since last May, and some experts believed the Germans actually tried it in the heavy daylight raids in August when they were repulsed with heavy losses.

Now the belief prevails among observers here that the Germans are ready for continuous night assaults with pilots trained for night bombing with the same intensity with which the mechanized division officers and men were trained in Germany and tested on the Polish plains.

VAST SCALE RETALIATION
No observer doubts the power and tenacity with which these blows can be struck. While Britain is strengthening her defences, the general feeling is that the best defence will be retaliation on a vast scale.

Scattered reports from one of the worst hit towns in the industrial region said, fires on Tuesday night made the sky almost as bright as day, and that there was no respite in the first hours from the bombs.

About 250 Nazi planes took part in that attack on one area alone, while other formations and lone raiders kept other parts of Britain under bomb fire.

All reports indicated the Germans failed to inflict the same damage dealt to Coventry last Thursday night when some 300 persons were killed.

EXTENSIVE DAMAGE
Some blocks of buildings in the hardest hit city were leveled, and damage was extensive. But almost normal bus service soon was restored, and the people went back to work.

The greatest hope of smashing the Nazi night attacks, experts say, is the development of an instrument which could locate the German planes for interceptor planes. Experiments are being carried on by hundreds of laboratories with the most skillful men in the country seeking a solution.

There are indications that progress is being made, but air force officers said there were no indications a device has yet been perfected.

One hundred and seventy-two victims of the raid on Coventry were buried today in a common grave.

RATIONAL IDEA

"Oh," explained mother, "it's only quarter moon now, dear."
"Oh, mummy," came the further question, "have they rationed the man in the moon, too?"

Leaders Fall in New York Mart And Trade Light

NEW YORK, Nov. 20 (AP).—Leading stocks fell 4 to 4 1/2 points in today's market as the war news was interpreted bearishly and traders lightened commitments as a pre-holiday caution.

The list backed away at the start and occasional efforts for a rally usually were unsuccessful. Most steel, motor, aircraft and pivotal industrial closed not far from the low of the day.

Negative comment was found in the relative smallness of offerings on the decline. Despite the substantial reduction of quotations, transfers totaled only 813,760 shares against 702,880 the day before. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off 8 1/2 points at 446 compared with 454 1/2 a month ago. It was the biggest day's recession since November 6, 1937, when the industrial composite was back to about the level of the latter part of September.

Another batch of highly cheerful dividend declarations and earnings statements served to bring in a little support now and then, but this was hardly sufficient to stem the downward tide.

Prominent share holders included U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, Du Pont, Union Carbide, Eastman Kodak, American Telephone, Anacosta, American Smelting, International Nickel, Great Northern, Pennsylvania, Texas Corp. and International Paper preferred.

"Devil's Work"

CHAPTER XXI

Then Haskell went to her, took her arm, and as she smiled up at him, he said only, "Sit here," and offered her a chair in a corner.

To the relief of all, Doctor Gregg came then.

"Tell me all about it," he said to Austin, after a general greeting.

"I don't know what to say," Forrest returned. "We were all in here—no, not all, but most of us here now, just as we often are. We sat or stood around, saying it was time to go to bed, but not going. Vivian and his wife were fencing—they did that every night for practice. We didn't look at them much; it wasn't fancy work, just a bit of technique and we were mostly at the other end of the room. Then they stopped fencing after fifteen minutes; they always did that on the dot. Then Jean went off to her room, and Vivian stayed here."

"And then?" the doctor prompted.

"Why, I don't know exactly. I was over at the table, looking at the list of engagements for today. We're having a fencing meet, you know."

"Yes, I know. I thought you had a larger house party."

"Oh—yes. They aren't all here. Some went to bed early. You see, we put in strenuous work with our practice and we got tired."

But Dr. Gregg was now looking over the dead man.

"We must call the Medical Examiner," he said. "This man has been stabbed."

"He couldn't have died from that cut in his neck," Peter Haskell said. "That's a mere scratch."

"Yes, I know. I'm not a fencer myself, so I wish some of you would tell me. Why would a fencer make a cut like that?"

"It's a sort of stop thrust," Haskell said. "It usually draws the parry and riposte of the adversary and gives opportunity for the counter-riposte or remise or reprise."

"Stop," Gregg said impatiently. "You know all that jargon means nothing to me. Where is the weapon?"

Haskell picked up the foil that lay on the floor nearby and offered it to Gregg.

But the doctor's interest had returned to the victim rather than the method of his death, and he was already at the telephone.

When he turned back to the others, he said, "Peterson will be here directly. You may leave the room if you wish, but no one may leave the house until he comes. As you say there are other guests, I think it would be wise to notify them of what has happened. Who is in authority here?"

At first no one spoke and then Austin said, "Mrs. Forrest, of course."

"Oh, no," said Jean shuddering. "You take charge, won't you, Austin? At least for tonight."

"Yes, dear," he said kindly. "I'll do anything I can. What do you want to ask, Doctor Gregg?"

"See to it that the other guests and the servants are roused, and tell them to dress and be in readiness if the examiner calls for them."

"But it's only four o'clock," Jean said. "It's surely not necessary to get all the staff up at this hour."

Just have enough to look after us all, Austin."

Gregg looked a little surprised at this revelation of his orders, but he said nothing. He had yet to learn that Jean's calm demeanor had a very strong will and real executive ability.

"I know," said Austin, as he left the room. "I'll see to it."

"Until Doctor Peterson comes," Gregg said slowly, "I prefer not to make any statement regarding Mr. Forrest's death. It is not entirely clear just what is the exact cause. He was fencing, you say. Was he seemingly in his usual good health?"

"Yes," Haskell told him. "Vivian was always well, and today he was somebody else to tell me just how Mr. Forrest felt. I mean, was he well, just describe the scene."

The wording of this speech seemed to exclude Peter Haskell, and no one offered to take his place.

To the surprise of all, Gregg looked at Suzy Kirk and said, "Young lady, I've noticed your intelligent face and your quick comprehension. I'll ask you to tell me what I want to know."

Suzy showed no elation or any embarrassment. She said simply, "I was in the back part of the room, in that sort of alcove."

"Were you alone there?"

"No."

"Who was with you?"

"Mr. Haskell."

"What were you doing?"

"We were fencing."

"If I bought this yacht on easy payments," he asked the salesman, "how long would it take me to pay for it completely?"

The salesman gazed thoughtfully at the prospective customer.

"How much," he countered, "can you afford to pay each week?"

The young man rubbed his chin. "Well," he said finally, "I earn twenty-five dollars a week. I imagine I can pay off about five dollars a week on this boat."

The salesman's eyes popped. "Five dollars a week!" he cried. "Why, at that rate, it would take you more than three hundred years to pay off this yacht!"

The young man gazed longingly at the trim craft.

"So what?" he mused. "It's worth it!"

and Barbara Wallace came into the study.

Barbara hesitated and then went and sat beside Jean, who was doing what good Mrs. Wallace would call "bearing up beautifully." For Barbara Wallace, one of the highlights of the Bargon Club, was also an inveterate gossip, and surely after this experience she would have plenty to gossip about.

"Austin told me," she whispered to Jean, "so I came right to you."

Jean wanted to say, "Please go right away again," but she restrained the impulse and murmured some senseless words of thanks.

DEVELOPMENT OF CANADIAN NAVY

Interesting Article Gives History and Development of R.C.N.—Story Is Well Illustrated

The current issue of The Canadian Geographical Journal, which will appear on local newsstands today, contains an exceedingly interesting article which is practically the feature of the magazine.

Entitled "The Royal Canadian Navy," and written by Lieut. John Farrow, it deals with the history and development of Canada's fighting forces afloat, from the formation of the R.C.N. in 1911, following an Imperial Conference, to the recent capture of the Weser by H.M.C.S. Prince Robert, and other events equally up to date.

The picture of the growth of our navy's status, from a few gunboats to an effective fighting force, taking its part in Great Britain's mastery of the seas, is ably drawn. Historical fact and narrative are closely interwoven to make the reading of gripping interest.

The way in which the article is illustrated is not the least important feature. Action shots at sea, together with pictures of the various vessels themselves, tell the story of a service which, in a comparatively few years, has won itself a very real reputation for efficiency and smartness in peace and war.

OPTIMIST

The young man, a sparkle in his eye, walked into the princely-looking boat store. He looked around and picked out a snappy, richly colored yacht.

"If I bought this yacht on easy payments," he asked the salesman, "how long would it take me to pay for it completely?"

The salesman gazed thoughtfully at the prospective customer.

"How much," he countered, "can you afford to pay each week?"

The young man rubbed his chin. "Well," he said finally, "I earn twenty-five dollars a week. I imagine I can pay off about five dollars a week on this boat."

What Today Means

"SCORPIO"

If November 21 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a.m. until noon, from 2 to 4 p.m. and from 8 to 10 p.m. The danger periods are from 8 to 10 a.m.; from 4 to 8 p.m. and from 10 p.m. until midnight. You may find some people irritatingly slow on this date, a sluggishness being evidenced in their actions and decisions. Viewpoints will vary greatly on this date, and if you are over-emphatic in expressing your views you may place yourself in a position of being regarded as self-opinionated. A spirit of contrariness will be the primary cause of some people being opposed to anything suggested. Therefore be prepared to override any unreasonable objection to any suggestion that you may make. This is a day on which temperamental peculiarities should not be humored, if they interfere with desire or comfort. A firm stand may suffice on this day to bring anyone inclined to kick over the traces to their senses, but a wishy-washy attitude will only encourage them to act in an irrational manner. Married and engaged couples, and those Cupid has brought together, will do well to remember on this date that "facts are stubborn things," and they must not be disputed or ignored if harmonious conditions are to prevail. If a woman and November 21 is your birthday, you should have a keen, analytical mind, and a quick over the grasp of matters involving business affairs. You probably believe in relying on your intuition to guide you in forming opinions of people and the proper procedure you should pursue in the handling of matters of a business nature. You probably like anyone who speaks plainly and makes no attempt to camouflage his meaning. You should prove yourself a very capable and successful worker in the field of literature, art, music, dramatics, teaching, sales agent, or business manager. The man you marry will probably fulfill your expectations, and should fully repay your love and devotion. The child born on November 21 has usually an infectious laugh that will win it many friends. Not easily discouraged, Scorpio's children persevere until they overcome difficulties or obstacles that confront them in their daily life. As a rule their lives are filled with much joy and many triumphs as home-makers and business successes. If a man and November 21 is your natal day, a love for personal freedom makes you resentful of any effort to place a restraint upon it. You should appreciate constructive criticism and good advice, and under no circumstances should you turn a deaf ear to either. Your results as an educator, lecturer, clergyman, author, political leader, manufacturer, inventor, salesman, engineer, architect, artist, musician, journalist, chemist, agriculturalist, botanist, or military service, are likely to be gratifying and very profitable. (Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)
